DEBATE IN CONVENTION ON CENTRALIZING PLAN

this part of the report, when Mr. McConnell demanded recognition.
He declared that the present arrangement of having three beards was not conductve to the best interests of the convention. The speaker charged that under the present arrangement
the boards were striving against each other. "We want to enlist the pro foundest sympathy and greatest liberality of our constituency," said Mr.
McConnel. "A crowd of appeals from two or three boards injures all. You cannot make givers. You can only obtain gifts by making the people want to give." Continued From First Page.)

ONE GREAT PERIODICAL

AND ONE BOARD IS NEED

The speaker declared that there was a great need for cultivating literature nd the Foreign Mission Journal, as and the Foreign Mission Journal, as and the Foreign Mission journal, as andequate. "What we need," he added, "is one great periodical and one dission board."

ed, "Is one great periodical and one mission board."

Mr. McConnell said he had been told the centralization plan was opposed for two reasons. First, "because in no other of our cities are there enough brethren to make up a board," and second, "because we couldn't finance our board in any Southern etty."

These two reasons were characterized as ridiculous by the speaker, who said he would be willing to close his eyes and pick a board of twenty men from the delegates present, and acide, "bankers have banks to lend money."

As an example of successful centralization and organization, Mr. McConnell cited John D. Rockefeller. "Indimire him for the wisdom which enabled him to get rich." he announced, and then added, "boat, however, if any of it was obtained by oppression."

Dr. John E. White assured the delegates the commission had carefully considered the matter before making the recommendation. He expressed the heief that confusion would result if an attempt were made to consolidate the boards in any one city. He also declared that no single city could furnish adequate banking facilities. In Richmond and Atlanta, the speaker raid, a board would not be able to borraid.

Dr. White called attention to the reaking up by Jackson of the National Bank of the United States, and eclared the establishment of the rely it was proposed that the profined to section 2, which caused the discussion be laid aside until the remainder of the report had been acted upon. This was carried. Little progress was made, however, when adjournment was taken with the red

The above shows the royalties of the successful bidders on four and cight years' contracts for duplicate sets of plates delivered free at State printing office in Sacramento, kept corrected and in perfect condition at all times. The publishers also agree to make any changes, add any California supplements desired, etc., without charge. All the well-known publishers compete keenly in the bidding for contracts, with all the first-class, first-choice, popular textbooks. The prices to dealers are not a fair criterion to bank on—they are too high rather than otherwise. We furnish our books free to pupils, and the sales are so small as to be insignificant—to private schools, individuals, etc. Fixing the above prices, the object was to make the State amply safe rather than to place the prices as low as possible—it is fixed at a safe cost price, eafe against fluctuations in price of labor, material, etc.

Inish adequate banking facilities. In Richmond and Atlanta, the apeaker said, a board would not be able to borrow beyond a certain fixed amount as a result of the installation of the regional banks.

"Does the foreign mission board borrow all of its money in Richmond" called out a delegate.

"Not all of it," repited Mr. White.
